"Cracked" With Third
Term As Wedge

By International News Service
ENROUTE AMARILLO, Texas, Sept. 17.—Following a hugely successful appearance in Democratic Oklahoma, Wendell Willkie headed for Amarillo, Texas, today to discuss the third term as a major issue in the 1940 campaign.

Willkie last night drew a surprisingly big and enthusiastic crowd in Tulsa—normally a Democratic city—when he stopped there for 30 minutes to deliver an extemporaneous speech.

An estimated 30,000 to 50,000 persons crowded the State fair grounds and at least 10,000 more lined the road on the five mile route.

Willkie has maintained from the outset that the solid South could be cracked and with the third term as a wedge, he means to try his theory in Texas.

If he gets a response, it is probable that after his western trip he will make

COUNTY FIREMEN TO

President James E. Groome Suggests Naming A "Preliminary Planning Committee"

FIRE LOSS IS LOW

BUCKINGHAM, Sept. 17.—A fire loss of $21,765 was reported Saturday night at a quarterly meeting of the Bucks County Firemen's Association which met here in Tyro Grange Hall. The report was by Fire Marshal, Raymond Strunk. "It was the lowest fire loss in the county during any three months period during my term," said Strunk.

Strunk reported two houses were partially burned, and seven barns, three of which were struck by lightning, were burned. The amount of insurance was $33,700, and the valuation of property endangered was placed at $45,000. There were 28 alarms.

President James E. Groome, who presided, gave a stirring talk on what he called a "preliminary planning committee" in connection with National Defense. He enumerated a number of places in the county which might prove targets for bombing and sabotage such as industries, airports and oil plants.

In order to prevent any Fifth Column activities as well as sabotage, President Groome asked that a committee—composed of Sheriff William L. Stackhouse, chairman; Lloyd Y.

Colored Woman Shot
By Mistake, Is Claim

NEWTOWN, Sept. 17.—A colored woman, Mrs. Louise Rivers, Newtown R. D., is a patient in Abington Hospital, as the result of being shot in the upper part of the right leg early yesterday morning. Being in connection with the case is John Nelson, also colored, who lives about three miles from the Rivers home, and who according to the police admits the shooting, claiming he had fired at Burlee Rivers, husband of Louise. Nelson is being questioned, and it is believed that formal charges will soon be lodged against him.

According to the stories pieced together by officers from Oxford Valley barracks of Pennsylvania Motor Police, Burlee Rivers and Nelson had been "scrapping" for a few days.

The story as told to officers Minker and Swan is that Nelson claims Rivers had visited the Nelson home with Jack Ward early Sunday evening. Rivers is said at that time to have shot at Nelson with a shot-gun, some of the shot striking Nelson. Later Nelson is claimed to have borrowed a .22 rifle, and waited in a field near the Rivers' cottage for the return of Rivers, who arrived some time later with his wife. After entering the house, Rivers is said to have opened the door a short time later, and it is then that Nelson is alleged to have aimed at him, but the shot going wild entered the window and struck Mrs. Rivers in bed. She was taken to the office of a Newtown physician, and later removed to Abington Hospital.

Rivers claims he recognized Nelson. At 7.30 yesterday morning Rivers called the Oxford Valley barracks, informing officers that Nelson was again shooting at him and Ward. Police took Nelson into custody a few minutes later, and he was removed to Doylestown. Police report that Nelson admits shooting the woman, claiming he aimed at Mr. Rivers.

Germans Claim Weather

Berlin, Sept. 17.—Heavy shelling of Dover's harbor by big Nazi guns on the French coast and wavering intensity of air force attacks on Britain due to inclement weather were announced today in an official communique which stated:

"During the course of Sept. 16, activity of the air force was restricted to armed reconnaissance in view of unfavorable weather conditions.

"Several airports in Southern England and the midlands were effectively bombed as well as harbor and industrial facilities of Whitby.

"Towards noon retaliatory attacks on London were continued in successive waves and with mounting force until this morning."

French War Planes Attack
Germans, Is Report

Rome, Sept. 17.—Attacks by French war planes based in Morocco against German forces in occupied France and Italian troops in the Mediterranean area were disclosed today as Mussolini's colonial troops swept along the Egyptian coast toward Alexandria.

This correspondent learned that the French squadron has carried out 10 separate raids already. The war planes were to have been turned over to Germany and Italy under the armistice terms, but the pilots elected to continue the fight for Britain.

Concern over the situation in French Morocco was said to explain stiffening of the Rome-Berlin axis attitude toward the Vichy government of France, as well as the visit of Spanish minister of the interior Ramon Senero Sener to Berlin.

Meanwhile, as Italian motorized forces drove on to Sidi Barrani from Sollum, the Rome press began to assume that Egypt would soon declare war.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

What's a couple of ribbons to a goat anyway? Even though they may have been blue, red or yellow, it made no difference to the purebred Nubians from the H. W. Anderson goat dairy at Prospectville, who ate their awards some time during Friday night at the 18th annual Doylestown Fair.

Saturday morning when a checkup was being made on the show sponsored by the Delaware Valley Milk Goat Association which has been one of the outstanding features of the Doylestown Fair for years, all that was found of the Anderson ribbons were a few blue, red and yellow shreds and a badly eaten placard with only a few letters left. Inquiry revealed the owner of the Nubians, but the ribbons which adorned the side walls throughout the week, were on their way to the digestive tracts of the two prize-winning goats. It's a goat story and it's true.

At the meeting of the Sellersville Fire Company, a contract for the installation of a complete heating unit for the fire house was awarded to R. K. Shelly. Work on its installation will be started immediately.

In his monthly report Chief Herman Winer stated that there were no fires during the past month. The first fire drill of the year at the public schools was conducted last week, he said. The children, he continued, responded well to the drill, the buildings being emptied in good order in practically a minute.

The ladies' auxiliary also met the same evening, when two new members were welcomed. They are Mrs. Russell Moll and Mrs. Rolland Moyer.

After their business session the women acted as hostesses to the firemen and served coffee and cake. Motion pictures of scenes at Lake Walespaupack, were shown during the social hour. The pictures were taken by Ernest Aliff.

President Roosevelt
Signs Conscription Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—President Roosevelt yesterday signed the Buckle-Wadsworth draft bill into law, and straightway ordered all men in the country from 21 to 35 years of age, inclusive, to register next Oct. 16 to launch the first peace-time military conscription program in American history.

Registration of the estimated 15,500,000 men eligible for a year of service in the Army or Navy will take place at election polling booths between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m.

Of that number 400,000 will be inducted into the country's armed forces by Jan. 1, 1941. Conscription then will proceed at the rate of 500,000 men a year until the newly enacted law expires on May 15, 1945.

The Judge Reassures Us

Washington, Sept. 16.
IN DEALING with the third-term issue, which the Roosevelt managers, not unnaturally, would like to rule out of the discussion in this campaign, the Republicans ought not to overlook the comment on this subject by Judge John E. Mack, made some days ago at Hyde Park, where the President and he both addressed a meeting of the Dutchess County Roosevelt Club.

THE judge's comment is worth a wider attention than it got. Judge Mack is that old friend of Mr. Roosevelt's who nominated him in 1932 and again in 1936 and who, as his most reliable journalistic mouthpieces asserted, the President had picked to nominate him for a third time last July. This schedule would have been followed but for developments which Mr. Eddie Kelly, the Chicago boss, and Mr. Eddie Flynn, the New York boss, thought made it unwise. They could not make their plans for the big Roosevelt convention demonstration fit in unless Alabama led off by presenting the Roosevelt name when the roll call started. It was essential that Mr. Kelly's Sewer Commissioner in the cellar of the convention hall not be delayed by his stentorian blasts of "We Want Roosevelt."

SO, because of the exigencies of the situation, Judge Mack was sidetracked and had no chance to proclaim the overpowering virtues of his hero until the Hyde Park meeting. But there, with the President on the platform, he extolled him as the wisest as well as the most righteous of men, and, according to the New York Times, concluded his address by declar-

Kenneth B. White, Morrisville,
To Address Fathers Ass'n
Members

FIRST SESSION OF YEAR

The first meeting of the season will be held tomorrow night by the Bristol Fathers' Association which will assemble in the cafeteria of the Bristol high school at eight o'clock.

The speaker of the evening is to be Kenneth B. White, Morrisville. Mr. White is the son of Gula E. White and was a student at both the Trenton high school and the New Jersey State Model School. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in engineering administration in 1920. During the first World War Mr. White was a second lieutenant in the infantry and until recently was a Reserve Captain of Engineers. He belongs to the Paris Post of the American Legion.

Mr. White will speak on the subject of "I Came Home on the 'Washington'".

Mr. White went to Europe in 1931 as chief staff engineer of an American firm of management consultants with offices in Paris and London. They installed American methods of running factories in a wide variety of industries in a dozen countries. Most of the work, particularly since the rise of Hitler, was increasing production and reducing costs in French, English, and Scottish factories.

During the first five years Mr. White had a number of unusual jobs. He planned the removal of the Rumanian Government railway car building plant from the frontier to the interior, and planned the reorganization of Austria's principal industry for the Dutch financiers.

When the war clouds drove the head of the consulting firm back to the United States, White remained behind and started in business for himself with offices in Glasgow and Paris. He reorganized a number of factories rapidly to produce shell parts, gun parts, airplane parts, mines, etc., etc., in great quantities for the French and British army, navy and air forces. The DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 17.—Bucks county's court of "tipsy driving" continued yesterday as the first week of criminal court with jury trials got under way. A number of defendants charged with driving while drunk, pleaded guilty while others went to trial before juries.

Thomas W. Groves, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, went on trial before Judge Calvin S. Boyer.

The first witness for the Commonwealth was Vincent Mather, North Bellevue avenue, Langhorne, who said he was returning home from work June 2, testified he saw the defendant operating his car in Morrisville.

"Between Morrisville and Lincoln Point, where the defendant stopped his car, I asked him, 'whether he was trying to kill some one.'"

"I noticed his car zig-zagging from one side of the road to the other," testified Mr. Mather.

Mather, who followed the defendant's car for a quarter of an hour on the Lincoln Highway, notified the Penna. Motor Police in South Langhorne.

Mather, who is a musician, testified it was rather foggy, and driving was difficult. Private Donald C. Wentzel, of the South Langhorne sub-station, of the P. M. P., at the time of the arrest, testified he went toward South Langhorne and the defendant, Mr. Groves, was seated behind the steering wheel but the car had been stopped.

"A man was trying to get him out of the car," said Private Wentzel.

Camp Meeting Bible Group
Ends Successful Season

TREVOSE, Sept. 17.—A quarter of a century of activity was ended this month by Simpson Grove Men's Bible sessions. The lessons this year have been in charge of the Rev. John A. McElroy, pastor of Trevese Methodist Church.

The Men's Bible Class report showed a much smaller average attendance than the season of 1939, due some felt to the absence of genial Ernest Choate, the "spark plug," who went through the highways and by-ways of Trevese last summer gathering up large class attendances.

The lessons by Rev. John A. McElroy, pastor of Trevese Methodist Church, were inspirational and a daily help to the men, and this fact was shown by their parting gift to him of a compact leather case enclosing a Communion set to be used for sick calls.

This gift was presented at a closing social which included election of officers for the 1941 season, the same being: George A. Haigh, president; George Quinn, secretary and treasurer; Arthur B. Fraser, song leader, and Newton B. Hodges, pianist.

STILL AS GOOD AS NEW

One hundred and fifty-three years ago—on September 17, 1787—the Constitution of the United States of America was signed at Philadelphia by delegates from twelve of the thirteen original states, only Rhode Island being unrepresented in the convention. So, in a sense, it may be said that the Constitution is one hundred and fifty-three years old, although government under the Constitution did not become operative until March, 1789.

So the Constitution as a document has reached its 153rd birthday, and American Federal government is only a year and a half younger. Americans like to think of the United States as one of the world's younger nations; but, in the field of government under a written constitution, it is the senior of all the principal powers.

In a sense, of course, the Constitution is much more than 153 years old. The work of hewing its foundation in the solid rock of individual liberty was begun, many centuries before the Philadelphia convention in the Constitution-buildings—ancient home, the land of Magna Charta. Into the superstructure was wrought the experience of generations of seekers of liberty in many European lands.

James Madison, perhaps the most useful and certainly the most industrious of the delegates to Philadelphia, is said to have studied every written constitution in the world's history, before approaching his task. More important than Madison's prodigious labor of preparation, however, was his own and other delegates' dedication to one great principle which differentiated the American Constitution from virtually all charters of government, written and unwritten, then existing.

That one great principle had been formulated by Thomas Jefferson, 11 years earlier, when he wrote in the Declaration of Independence that, to secure the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, "governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

The Constitution of the United States was not drawn as a charter whereby government conferred certain rights and privileges on the individual. It was a compact among the original states whereby the people thereof agreed to confer definite and limited powers on a central government, reserving all other powers to the governments of their several states or to themselves.

That last reservation is of paramount importance. There has been much loose and bewildered talk in recent years of a "no man's land" where neither Federal nor state government may operate. There is such a zone where neither government may intrude, but it is not a "no man's land." It is what is left of the free man's land which the Founders of the Republic sought to preserve inviolate from governmental intrusion of any sort.

ing that Mr. Roosevelt had just told him that he has no intention of being a candidate for a fourth term. This was no slip of the tongue upon the part of the good judge, as he then went on to explain that the President did not really want to run for a third term and had told him so six months before the convention. He was, said the judge, "drafted against his will," but "he already has told me he will not run for a fourth time."

PERHAPS Judge Mack is not much of a political figure. He is, however, one of Mr. Roosevelt's oldest friends and one to whom he talks intimately. When Judge Mack says Mr. Roosevelt told him he would not run for a fourth term, it can be accepted that Mr. Roosevelt told him exactly that. This, of course, is not an important statement, but it does shed light upon the Roosevelt mind and it draws attention once more to certain facts about his third-term candidacy, which the White House strategy is designed to blur.

FOR one thing, it indicates the extraordinary conceit of Mr. Roosevelt, who already assumes his reelection for a third term, and among his cronies, has been talking about whether or not he should run for a fourth term. This in itself is illustrative of the state of mind of the President, whose whole attempt to break the two-term limit for Presidents, which has prevailed in America for 160 years, is based on the theory that there is no one else in the United States, qualified to govern the nation save himself. That is the only excuse for the third-term campaign. It is this assumption which is the whole foundation of and the sole justification for the effort to keep Mr. Roosevelt in the White House for twelve instead of eight years.

BUT even more interesting than Judge Mack's reassurance about the fourth term is his assertion that Mr. Roosevelt was "drafted against his will" for the third-term attempt. There is no doubt that Judge Mack believes that. And unquestionably there are other innocent and uninformed people who believe it. But Mr. Roosevelt cannot possibly believe it, although that is the pose which his third-term candidacy forces him to adopt. It is probably true that Mr. Roosevelt told Judge Mack six months before the convention that he did not want a third term. It certainly is true that he told Mr. Furley in August, 1939, that he would not be a third-term candidate. Just when he made up his mind to try for a third term no one but himself knows. The best guess is that it was in January of this year. What every posted politician and political observer does know is that for five months before the convention Mr. Roosevelt was actively conniving in the movement to renominate himself. The overwhelming and convincing evidence of this was when, after a White House conference, Eddie Kelly, the Chicago boss, entered Mr. Roosevelt's name in the Illinois primaries.

AFTER that none save the uninformed believed that Mr. Roosevelt was not forcing his own renomination, although there were those who believed to the last that he would not accept. The facts that the "draft" at Chicago was phony; that Mr. Roosevelt dictated the action of the convention over a special telephone wire to his special representative, Mr. Harry Hopkins; that it required all his power as President, plus the Kelly-Flynn-Hague machines, to crush out the party opposition and put his nomination over, these facts are too well established to need repetition. They can be proved up to the hilt. Even some of his most devoted friends were disgusted at the fraudulent character of his message to the convention and the fakery of the whole draft performance. One of them—Mr. Raymond Clapper, whose admiration for Mr. Roosevelt has been great—denounced his message as "untruthful" and wrote that "up to the time of that message I had faith in Mr. Roosevelt. I have so no longer."

WHEN these things are recalled, the bland statements by Judge Mack that Mr. Roosevelt has no intention of running for a fourth term and really did not want to run for a third term are insulting to the intelligence and at variance with the facts. No one would want to accuse Judge Mack of insincerity or deceit. Undoubtedly he believes what he says. But the man of whom he spoke and who sat on the platform, beamingly acquiescent, could not believe it—that is, unless he has self-hypnotized himself to an almost incredible degree.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

The Grand Theatre's new film today is Warner Bros.' fast-paced, dynamic story of an underworld mouthpiece, "The Man Who Talked Too Much," starring George Brent and Virginia Bruce.

Taking full advantage of the strong Frank J. Collins play, Warner's cast the film with such capable players as Brenda Marshall, Richard Barthelmess, staging a screen comeback in a character role, and William Lundigan.

A dramatic situation opens the story as the confession of a murderer clears a boy of the crime for which he was executed, convicted by District Attorney Stephen Forbes, played by George Brent.

RITZ THEATRE

The emancipation of a great man who was later responsible for the emancipation of the United States, provides the stirring basis of the picture based on the Robert E. Sherwood Pulitzer Prize Play, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," now at the Ritz.

BRISTOL THEATRE

Of the many millions of theatregoers who have seen Akim Tamiroff on the screen, and have enthusiastically acclaimed the consummate artistry of his characterizations, there are probably but relatively few who realize that, shorn of his make-up, this talented actor could still enact his roles with substantially the same effectiveness and conviction.

In his latest picture, "The Way of All Flesh," in which are also featured Gladys George, William Henry and Muriel Angelus, and which is scheduled to open at the Bristol Theatre today, Tamiroff plays many of his most important scenes practically without make-up.

ant had the odor of alcohol on his breath, swayed and stumbled.

Dr. Richard Marker, South Langhorne, who examined the defendant testified Groves admitted drinking seven glasses of beer. "He was quiet and courteous," said Dr. Marker.

On condition that he pay a fine of $200 and costs, President Judge Hiram H. Keller yesterday suspended a prison sentence of 30 days to 1 year on Raymond J. Putz, of Philadelphia, who pleaded guilty to driving while drunk on June 15 when he was arrested in Middletown Township after he drove his car into the rear of a car ahead of him.

"Your good reputation is the only thing in your favor," Judge Keller told Putz. "The fact that you have worked for the same firm for more than 15 years and have made good your damages, is in your favor." The defendant was arrested by Private Gollub, of the South Langhorne sub-station of Motor Police.

Abraham R. Moyer, of Hamburg, a poultry buyer who formerly lived in Hatfield, pleaded guilty to driving his truck while drunk on July 5 when he was arrested by Private Gallagher, of the Quakertown sub-station. Judge Keller sentenced Moyer to pay a fine of $200 and costs. Moyer told the Court that he was driving a truck that had a faulty axle, or he would never have been caught. Moyer was arrested at the intersection of Bethlehem pike and Ridge road.

Roland Betz, of Coplay, Lehigh county, a former police officer, testified that he followed the defendant 14 miles and that he forced cars off the highway, on June 29, in South Langhorne when he was arrested by Constable F. C. Dunkley. He was sentenced to the Bucks County Prison for 30 days to 2 years.

Six months to 2 years in prison or pay a fine of $200 and costs was the sentence imposed on Charles J. Goodman, of Philadelphia, yesterday, after he had pleaded guilty to permitting John William Shonleber, of Philadelphia to operate his automobile while he was under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Judge Keller pronounced sentence. Shonleber pleaded guilty to driving while drunk and was also fined $200 and costs and a prison sentence of 2 months to 2 years was suspended. They were both arrested June 9 on the Lackawanna Trail by Private Lawler, of the Doylestown sub-station of Motor Police.

Clarence Gray, of Jersey City, pleaded guilty before Judge Keller yesterday to a charge of driving while drunk

Fred Miller, Phila., pleaded guilty before Judge Keller to driving while drunk on June 9 in Falls Township. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and costs.

CANDIDATES OUT FOR HIGH SCHOOL GRID SQUAD

Coach Campion is Rounding Boys Into Candidates For Team

ONE WEEK OF PRACTICE

Team Will Be Minus Ten of Last Year's Starting Eleven

After a week of hectic practice, the gridiron machine of Bristol High School, last season's champion of the Lower Bucks County pigskin circuit, has donned their war paint and are out to cop the title for the second successive year.

Coach Campion was swamped with a turnout of about 70 candidates, who are being molded into a powerful eleven for the coming season, which is just around the corner.

Coach Campion is somewhat handicapped with the loss of 10 of his last year's starting eleven: Ends, Steve Florito and Joe Pica; tackles, John Cordas and "Bull" Monnocci; guard, Ted Sak; center, Albert Tomlinson; Bud Carter, Hardy Johnson, Jimmy Orazi and Danny DiMidio.

However, this doesn't hamper him in the least, because he has many of his letter men and second string reserves to take up these grid vacancies, so as to set the locals on their glory road.

Jasper Mangiorena and Gilbert Herman, both Juniors, have copied top positions at the varsity wing posts by proving their worth as pass retrievers. Paul Ruby, a Soph, and Gus Centozzi, a Fresh, are both up and coming potential stars who showed up great. Joe Iannucci, an already varsity man from the previous year, will likely get one of the tackle positions. Carmen Ciaccia is having a hard time keeping his position with Kenny Herman, Phil Cobbs and Elwood Dyer giving him a tough fight. Bill Capella and Norman are alternating at the center position this year. Peter Spezzano is a last year varsity man. Bob Baurth is giving Pete good competition at the quarter-back position. Tom Galzerano is likely to get a halfback position. "Chic" DiAngelo is head of the aerial department. Clem Peterpaul is the plunger and kicker of the varsity.

The Bristol Bunnies have a rigorous schedule ahead of them this Fall. There are no new games to be played, but there is one innovation, a game to be played under the arena lights at Dunn Field in Trenton with Trenton Catholic High School, Friday, September 27th. The schedule is as follows:

Friday, September 27—a night game—Trenton Catholic High—Away
Sat., Oct. 5—Bensalem—Home
Sat., Oct. 12—Conshohocken—Away
Sat., Oct. 19—P. S. D.—Home
Sat., Oct. 26—Bordentown—Away
Sat., Nov. 2—Langhorne—Home
Sat., Nov. 9—Burlington—Away
Sat., Nov. 16—Bridgeport—Away
Thurs., Nov. 28—Morrisville—Home.

The blue rock shoot appealed most, and competition was keen. Those taking prizes in this event were: Alex Schwartz, Earl Groves, William Foltz, and Joseph King.

Those winning prizes in the children's events were: Harry Stone, small boys' 50 yard dash; Walter Rittler, large boys' 50 yard dash; Gwendolyn Hibbs, large girls' race; Joyce Welker, small girls' race; "Billy" Hibbs, balloon race; Miss Ethel Linck, girls' potato race; Gretchen Evans, women's 50-yard dash; Shirley Nickerson, girls' balloon race. Refreshments were served by the refreshment committee.

TWO COLLEGE TEAMS EXPECT GOOD SEASONS

(This is one of a series of articles by International News Service sports writers on prospects and preparations of Pennsylvania colleges for the 1940 football season.)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—(INS)—Improved seasons for West Chester State Teachers College and Pennsylvania Military College are in prospect this year according to indications at pre-season training camps of these rival suburban Philadelphia schools.

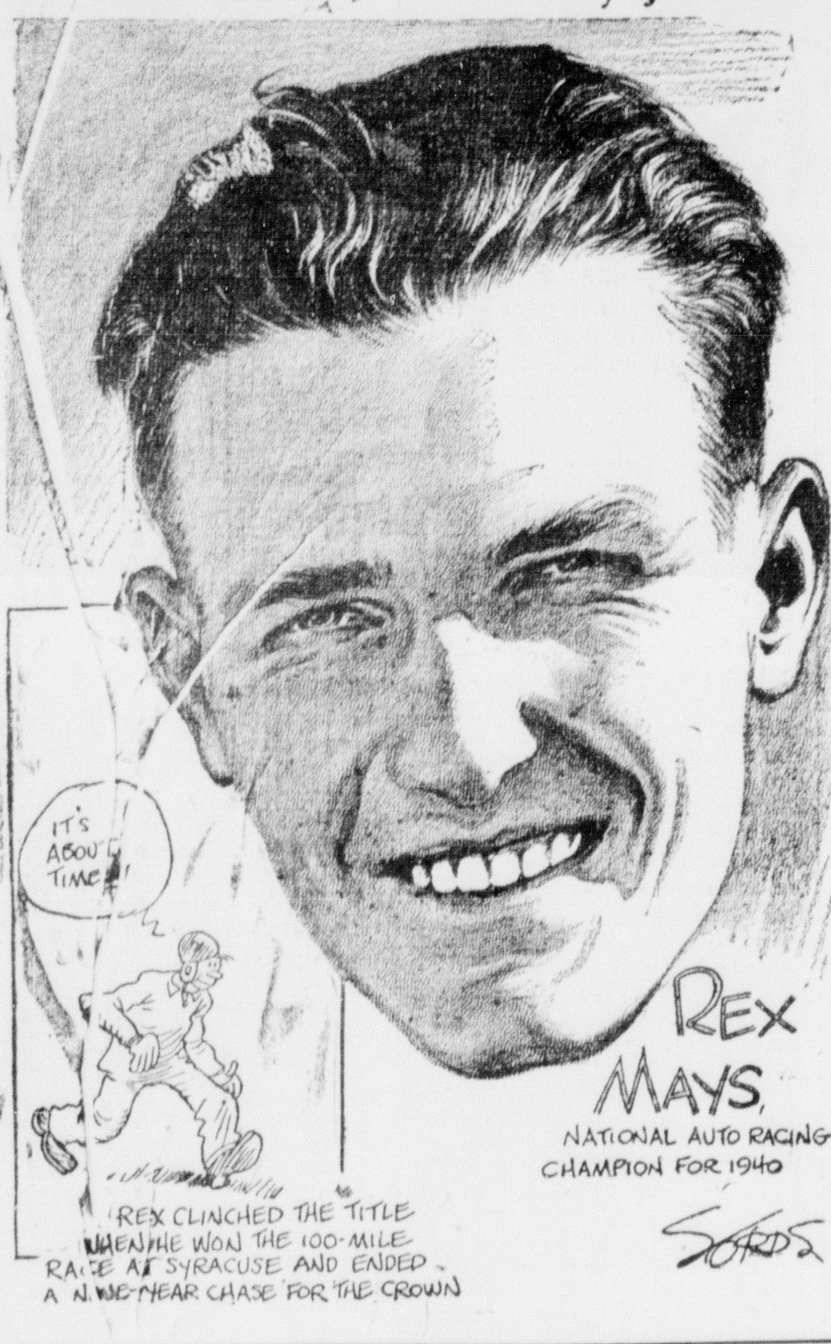

Both the Teachers, whose home is located in West Chester, Chester County, and the Cadets, located in Chester, Delaware County, have the advantage of having experienced men left over from last season. Seventeen veterans are on the squad of Glenn Killinger at West Chester, while Coach St. Paulk's P. M. C. has a squad of 19 veterans and nine newcomers.

"We probably won't win 'em all, but we'll be much improved over last season," said Killinger. "Frankly, I'm pretty optimistic. I look for quite a few close games. West Chester, which won three, lost three and tied three last year, opens its schedule at home September 20th with Blue Ridge. Included in the 1939 record were two games with P. M. C. The Cadets won in a breeze, 23-8, in the first game and were tied to a 6-6 tie in the second."

Capt. Tommy Gauntlett, of Branchdale, near Pottsville, who never played football until entering college, is the triple-threat ace of Killinger's squad. Most of the veterans are husky men ready to tackle a stiff schedule. Killinger will be serving his seventh season as head coach.

ger will be serving his seventh season as head coach.

Capt. Tommy O'Malley, running back, and Joe Glenn, a triple-threat man, will be the bulwarks of the P. M. C. attack and backfield defense. P. M. C. opens with Hartwick College at MacMurtrie Field, Feltonville, September 20th.

"A successful year," predicted Pautis, former Penn player and coach, who was heartened by his squad's morale. P. M. C. last Fall won three games, lost five and tied one, the defeats including a 43-0 loss to N. Y. U.

LOWER DIVISION TEN DEFEATS UPPER DIVISION

The Lower Division All-Stars defeated the Upper Division All-Stars football team of the Church League, at Croynod in the score 9-5, thereby deadlocking the series at two-all. The fifth and deciding game will be played at Croynod, Saturday, September 21st.

Too many errors proved the downfall of the Upper Division. In the first inning, the Lower Division scored four runs on a walk, two errors and two hits. Again in the sixth the first two men reached base on errors, then a walk and two successive singles scored four more runs.

Yehle and Grimes, with three hits each, were the hitting stars of their respective teams.

According to Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo Hamilton made a signed statement admitting his guilt and claimed that he had been drinking.
